JANUARY MEETING OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS.

At the January meeting of the Board of Supervisors the following "Rules of Proceedings" were adopted:

All bills, claims, complaints, petitions, demands and all other business, in which the County of Apache may be interested, or against said County of Apache, shall be made out in compliance with an act of the Legislature of this Territory, entitled "an act to provide for the manner of presenting claims against the counties in this Territory" and defining the duties of the Board of Supervisors; which act was approved February 23rd, 1881, and be filed with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors at least five days before the regular quarterly meeting of said board, if not so filed within the time prescribed the same will not be considered until the next regular meeting of said Board of Supervisors.

ARCHEOLOGY.

The Territories of Arizona and New Mexico abound in resources of the greatest archaeological and ethnological interest, not only to the people of these territories, but to the visitor tourist, and scientist as well. The Bureau of Ethnology has had specialists visiting these regions, for several years past, in the interest of science. During those visits much of interest has been learned, and many important objects relating to the ancient dwellers of the south-west have been collected for the National Museum, at Washington, where they are placed in the archives of that institution for the inspection of visitors. As Washington is a city where people from all countries come, and linger long enough to examine the wonderful public buildings, such as the National Observatory, Army Medical Museum, Smithsonian Institution, Coast Survey, Fish Commission, National Museum, the different Departments etc., it is believed that the people of Arizona could do much to attract intelligent attention toward the territory by giving publicity to every thing discovered in the way of curiosities, wonders, skeletons, ancient ruins, caves, or anything that may reveal itself, relating to the history of the early Indian inhabitants of its region. This could be done by addressing a brief note to Professor J. W. Powell, Director of the Bureau of Ethnology, Washington, D. C., such communications will receive immediate attention. They could also call the attention of the Bureau of Ethnology, to discoveries, by communicating with the HERALD which is forwarded to the Bureau office regularly. Many curious things are met with by persons passing to and fro, who do not care to take the trouble to investigate them, a note to the HERALD would call attention to such things and enable those specially interested to obtain important information that might otherwise be lost.
